AGM & Sports Fraud Event

17 July 2024, 09:30 – 11:45

We are delighted to announce that Wayne Barnes, lawyer and retired rugby referee, will be joining us for this year's guest lecture.

Wayne has presided over more Rugby World Cup matches than anyone else in history, including the 2023 Rugby World Cup Final.

During his session, Wayne will discuss his experiences of officiating professional rugby and what organisations and management can learn from the world of sport. He will also consider the importance of clear decision making, remaining calm as the pressure rises and the importance of language and communication skills.

This year's AGM keynote speaker will be Alan Vallance, CEO ICAEW. The ICAEW has supported the Panel for over 25 years and Alan will outline his vision for the next exciting chapter of collaboration.

All members of the Fraud Advisory Panel will receive their AGM proxy voting notices on Wednesday 5 June.

Registration for Fraud Advisory Panel members is now open.
Non-members are invited to register from 7 June.

Future Counter Fraud Community Launch

Thank you to our host and sponsor:

"I was recently a panellist at the Fraud Advisory Panel's event to launch the Future Counter Fraud Community, an initiative that aims to support those aspiring for a career in counter fraud, and to enhance awareness of fraud risks. During the event, panellists across various industries and backgrounds shared information on how the fraud landscape has changed over the years, and some of the key fraud challenges facing business today. In addition, different career routes into counter fraud were discussed, as well as the varied types of counter fraud work that is performed across different roles. Advice to those who may be looking for a career in this sector was also shared." > read more

What to know on day one

Raising Awareness

Counter-fraud is more than just catching fraudsters. Our panel of speakers will look at prevention and awareness campaigns; how we run them, the language we use and why delivering effective messaging is so important to the audiences they address.
